

American Bombers Raid Jap Targets on Pacific Fronts

Enemy Bases at Kiska and in Solomons Are Pounded Heavily

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—A Japanese cargo ship exploded and sank, the Navy reported today, when struck by bombs in the course of a heavy attack on the enemy-held Shortland island area of the northern Solomons.

A communiqué, reporting this raid, also disclosed new aerial assaults on the Japanese base at Kiska in the North Pacific where hits were observed in the camp area.

Navy communiqué No. 295; "North Pacific:

"1. On February 27, during the afternoon, a force of heavy and medium bombers, with fighter escort, attacked Japanese positions at Kiska. Results were not observed. All U. S. planes returned.

"2. On February 28, during the afternoon, enemy positions at Kiska were again attacked by U. S. medium bombers. Hits were observed in the camp area. All U. S. planes returned.

"South Pacific (all dates are East Longitude).

"3. On February 28:

"(a) A Hudson patrol bomber (Lockheed A29) dropped bombs in the area at Munda, on New Georgia island.

"One U. S. Plane Lost

"(b) A force of Liberator heavy bombers (Consolidated PB4Y) and Avenger torpedo planes (Grumman TBF) attacked Japanese shipping off Buin and bombed the enemy airfields at Kahili and Balale in the Shortland island area. An enemy cargo ship was hit, blew up and sank. Large fires were started at Kahili and Balale and an enemy plane was destroyed on the ground. One U. S. plane failed to return.

"(c) Daudless dive bombers (Douglas) with Lightning (Lockheed P38) and Wildcat Grumman F4F) escort, attacked and started fires at Vila, on Kolombangara island. All U. S. planes returned.

The Shortland island area of the northern Solomons is the most strongly held enemy base of operations in the archipelago. There are numerous flight strips there including those at Kahili and Balale, and the Japanese installations are well scattered over several islands.

Heavy Raid Indicated

The fact that large fires were reported as a result of the Sunday raid indicated the attack was one of the heaviest so far made by American airforces from Guadalcanal. Ordinarily the damage report has been confined to a more restricted statement such as that several fires or possibly one large fire had been started.

The patrol bomber attack on Munda was the 79th of the campaign begun last November 23 to wipe out that advance air base by bombing.

Loss of the cargo ship, which may have been an ammunition carrier or may have been loaded with gasoline tanks or some other explosive materials, brought to 60 the number of Japanese surface vessels destroyed in the Solomons campaign according to a compilation of navy reports. In addition 11 ships have been reported as probably sunk and 116 as damaged—a total of 187.

March Proclaimed Red Cross Month in Radio Message by President

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—The American Red Cross begins today the greatest single crusade of mercy in all history.

Thus spoke President Roosevelt yesterday in proclaiming the month of March Red Cross month and asking Americans to contribute at least $125,000,000 "to make sure that every American boy on every fighting front has everything he needs which the Red Cross can supply."

In a message read to the nation by Chairman Norman H. Davis of the Red Cross, Roosevelt said the organization was "undertaking a task unprecedented—because this war is unprecedented."

"We undertake this greatest of all Red Cross crusades in the name of mercy," he said, "now that we are engaged in a war to decide whether all our concepts of mercy and human decency are strong enough to survive."

FDR Resumes Light Duty After Illness

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, recovering from an intestinal disorder, switched today from inaction to "light duty" and scheduled his first appointments since last Wednesday.

They were with Admiral William D. Leahy, his personal chief of staff, and John G. Winant, United States ambassador to England, who has just returned to this country.

Private Buses to Be Brought Under ODT Prohibitions

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Privately-owned buses will be brought under the same prohibitions already in effect for vehicles operated in charter service by transportation companies, the Office of Defense Transportation announced today.

Effective March 5, the order abolishes all so-called "free" service, even where the bus is owned and operated by a private organization for the convenience of its own members or other restricted groups.

The order prohibits such services by privately-owned buses as: Special transportation to race tracks, golf clubs, beach clubs, riding academies, night clubs and road houses.

Exclusive service provided for attendants and guests by apartment buildings and hotels.

Special transportation for athletic teams, not only in school buses, but in vehicles owned by

Palmyra Farm House and Contents Fuel of Flames Saturday

A ten room modern farm residence on the farm owned by Dr. J. E. Miller of Chicago, seven miles west of Dixon on the River road, and its contents were destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. The farm is tenanted by the John Woessner family. The community fire truck from Dixon was summoned but upon their arrival found a large part of the house a mass of flame and within a short time it was completely destroyed.

The Woessner family were in Sterling when the fire broke out. A hired man, who was feeding stock in one of the large barns, heard the crackling of the flames but was unable to enter the house. With a tractor he removed an automobile from a garage then drove the tractor more than a half mile to the home of a neighbor to summon the fire truck from Dixon. The loss was reported to be partially covered by insurance.

Three Attendants at State Hospital Are Slated for Quizzing

Three attendants from the Dixon state hospital were to be questioned today by State's Attorney Morey Pires and Sheriff L. E. Bates concerning the death of Clarence Graham of Macoupin county one week ago at the institution. The county officials are assisting institution officers in the investigation to determine how Graham suffered injuries which were contributory to his death.

At the inquest last Tuesday it developed that the patient had been brutally beaten and five ribs were fractured in addition to other bruises. The coroner's jury recommended that the state's attorney assist the institution officials in continuing the investigation and to place responsibility for the treatment of the patient who had been at the state hospital but one week.

Accommodation

An announcement at the offices of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce today provided for better shopping and banking accommodations in Dixon, the new schedule of evening opening hours taking effect Friday, March 5. The new schedule is the result of a recent survey conducted by the Chamber to provide better evening shopping and banking hours for shoppers and employees of the Green River ordinance plant.

The banks will be closed Friday mornings, opening at 12:30 noon and remaining open until 3 p. m. They will reopen for business at 5:30 and continue to 7:30. The stores have arranged to keep open Friday evenings until 9 o'clock.

Claims Development of 'Aqua Terra' Dog; Answer to Sportsman's Dream

Salem, Ill., March 1.—(AP)—After ten years of patient effort Glenna Strong, a cobbler, says he's developed a utility dog that's the answer to any sportsman's dream.

The new breed is the "Aqua-Terra," a mixture of Chesapeake Bay retriever, and English setter, the pointer and the black and tan hound. And the high sounding name means what it says: they're as good in water as in the uplands.

Such versatility never before has been claimed for any breed; they're pointing and holding quail and backing other dogs at five months of age, they range as far as the powerful pointer, they'll

National Service Bill Supported by Secretary Stimson

War Chief Is Opposed by McNutt; Today's News in Nation's Capital

By The Associated Press

Washington, March 1.—Two administration leaders took opposite viewpoints today on the necessity for enacting a national service bill under which women as well as men could be drafted for farm and factory if necessary.

Secretary of War Stimson came out over the week-end for the Austin-Wadsworth measure to permit the compulsory assignment of civilians. The war chief said present manpower controls are inadequate. Today Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, expressed his disagreement.

The voluntary system is meeting "a measure of success," McNutt asserted, and "there is too much

Ghastly Murder Is Discovered Today

Auburn, Calif., March 1.—(AP)—A dead cow; gaunt, dying calves, and rabbits starved in their hutch led a curious deputy sheriff into California's most ghastly murder mystery of recent years.

He found all five members of a ranch family dead—two of them in a well, and the others shot to death in the ranchhouse bedroom. Condition of the bodies indicated they had been dead for two weeks.

So meager were clues that Sheriff Charles H. Silva could not even say whether it was a case of murder and suicide, or a mass slaying perpetrated by an outsider.

The bodies of Amos Latshaw, 38, and his wife, Ollie, were found in a well. Sprawled on a bed were the bodies of Latshaw's

Rationed Sale of Foods Begins in Nation This Morn

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—A couple of blue coupons will get you a can of peas today—if you pay the usual price in cash.

After eight days in which many a can of fruits or vegetables could be sold legally anywhere in the United States, rationed sales began.

Officials sat back to hear the moans of housewives and clerks, regarded as inevitable at least for a few days until people get used to the "point system."

To help lessen the confusion, an estimated 1,000,000 specially trained volunteers stand ready in nearly every community to answer questions and help out generally. Stores were invited to call local war boards or chambers of commerce to get such a trained "answerer" to come and help out right in the store.

To housewives, OPA's rationing administrator, Paul M. O'Leary, suggested a half hour's study of her shopping list and the point value chart before leaving the house. The real trick of "point rationing" is for each family to figure out, considering the point values of each item, just what it wants to get with its 48 points per person during March—to space purchases so that points will be left for month-end needs—to use high point coupons first so that at the end of the month it will be easier to add up combinations of small point coupons without needing change (grocers cannot give change in coupons).

Ordering may still be done by telephone and coupons given to delivery boys. But whether you go to the store or order by phone, don't tear out the coupon stamps until a store employee (including delivery boys) can watch you.

During March, you may use all the blue stamps which bear the letters, A, B or C. The figures on these stamps—1, 2, 5 and 8—are the point values. Count them like coins. For a 16-point can, you may use two 8-point stamps, three 5's and a one, or any other combination.

Don't try to cash the red stamps. They're for meat rationing due to begin March 28.

Nazis Batter Way Into Allies Lines at Medjez-el-Bab

Terrific Allied Air Assault Leaves Axis Ranks Bloody Chaos

By CARL C. CRANNER
Associated Press War Editor

German infantry and tanks, switching a persistent attack to the northern sectors of the Tunisian front, have battered their way a short distance into allied lines northwest of Medjez-el-Bab in an effort to flank that allied forward base, allied headquarters dispatches reported today.

In the central sectors, however, American and British forces were reported moving forward both to the south and the northeast from recaptured Kasserine Gap after their recovery of the initiative in that sector with the smashing of Marshal Erwin Rommel's offensive. The allied advance to the northeast, it was announced officially, was proceeding without meeting opposition.

Allied headquarters dispatches said the Germans had hammered a path slowly to three miles beyond Sidi Nsir, only 18 miles northeast of the road junction of Beja and 40 miles west of Tunis.

This represented only a slight gain in the face of stubborn opposition by the British First Army and a terrific allied air assault which was said to have left a "bloody chaos" in axis ranks.

Forts Raid Sicily

This gain was reported after an allied communiqué had announced that the continuing axis attacks at half a dozen points along a 65-mile front in the north had been turned back yesterday. The communiqué said however, that a particularly strong assault had been made on the road toward Beja, in an obvious effort to flank Medjez-el-Bab, the natural springboard for an eventual allied offensive against Tunis and Bizerte.

Spitfire and Hurricane pilots reported scores of hits on six wheeled and other armored vehicles and two waves of Flying Fortresses made one of their heaviest raids on Cagliari in Sicily where they report hits on four ships, docks, warehouses and railroad yards. The Italians admitted 200 persons were killed in the raid on Cagliari.

On the now thawing Russian front, the Red army's 100-day winter offensive appeared to have been brought to a halt in the rich industrial and mining region of the Donets basin, but to the northwest the soviets were still driving ahead toward the Dnieper and the western Ukraine from their newly won bases of Kharkov and Kursk.

Germany Pounded

From the west, Germany was being hammered from the air as never before.

On the Russian front the German high command claimed it finally had brought the 100-day

Legislators Meet Tonight to Form on Oil Rationing

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—(AP)—Forecasts that the Searcy legislative investigating committee would submit a report questioning the necessity of fuel oil rationing in Illinois were accompanied today by reliable reports that three Democratic members of the committee would write a minority report which would hold that rationing is essential to prosecution of the war.

The Republican-controlled committee, composed of five senators and five representatives, is scheduled to meet tonight to compile its findings. They will be reported to the legislature tomorrow or later this week.

The majority report, which Senator Earle B. Searcy (R-Springfield), committee chairman, has said would indicate there is no necessity for fuel oil rationing, was expected to be supported by Senators Searcy, Walker Butler (R-Chicago), R. G. Crisenberry (R-Murphysboro) and Nicholas L. Hubbard (D-Mt. Pulaski) and Representatives William G. Thon (R-Oak Park), Lottie H. O'Neill (R-Downers Grove), and Lyle M. Prescott (R-Dixon).

Minority Report

Claiming the military and other wartime demands for oil constitute adequate reasons for rationing, the minority findings are scheduled to be presented by Senator Stanley J. Mondala (D-Chicago), and Representatives J. L. Wellmeyer (D-Belleville) and George G. Noonan (D-Chicago).

Specific recommendations to form the foundation of a possible legislative resolution by the Illinois assembly to the national congress on fuel oil rationing are being considered, Searcy said.

Meanwhile Republican leaders expressed optimism over the possibility that Democratic objections to $6,700,000 in pending welfare and and penal institution deficiency appropriation bills have "cooled off," and looked for passage of the bills when the house reconvenes tomorrow after a 13-day recess. The senate also meets Tuesday.

Madame Chiang Greeted by New York Officials

New York, March 1.—(AP)—New York's Chinese community joined with city officials to welcome Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek upon her return to New York today for a four-day visit.

As the petite wife of China's generalissimo stepped from a special train, she was greeted by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia and Mrs. LaGuardia, Chinese Consul General Thune-Chi Yu and several of the mayor's aides.

Mme. Chiang, wearing a deep red silk Chinese gown, a sable coat, and carrying a sable muff, was escorted to a limousine through a guard of honor formed by New York policemen.

Murderer of Four Is Executed Today

Raiford, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Vincent J. Christy, 38, slayer of four Miami men, was put to death in the electric chair at the state prison this morning.

Christy's only words as he entered the death chamber were addressed to Father Murphy of the Catholic church at Starke: "Father, I am not a hypocrite."

Christy was sentenced Nov. 8 for the fatal shooting of Irving Leopold, a Miami meat market operator. He also was accused of killing Mrs. Leopold, her six-year-old son Stephen, and a passing motorist, Ralph J. Morin, Jr., 19. All four killings took place last July 17.

No motive was ever proven for the slayings. Christy said, in a signed confession after his arrest at Jacksonville last Sept. 9, that he had a "grudge" to settle with Leopold, killed the child accidentally, shot Mrs. Leopold because she screamed and killed Morin because he put up a fight that might have hindered his escape.

On the stand, Christy repudiated the confession.

Hopes for Safety of 69 Men, Caught in Montana Mine Explosion, Waning

Bearcreek, Mont., March 1.—(AP)—Nimed, silent relatives of 69 miners imprisoned in the Smith coal mine since an explosion Saturday waited today while rescuers combatted deadly gases with an emergency air blower set deep in the hillside mine.

At least five miners were known dead from the blast. Their bodies were recovered. Seven other bodies, a source who refused to be quoted said last night, have been located but could not immediately be brought out because of conditions in the tunnels.

Wives, mothers and sisters waited stoically in the face of rapidly vanishing hopes that the entombed men could still be alive.

The cause of the blast remained unknown.

Fifty of the highly skilled rescue workers were overcome by fumes before a new power blower was installed late yesterday 5,000 feet inside the mine.

As air was pushed farther into the mine, the searchers progressed nearer the point where the men had been working—about two miles in the sloping, honeycombed mine.

Equipped with gas masks, groups of 40 worked in six-hour shifts.

Gen. MacArthur Warns Japs Are Massing Force

INDIA By DeWITT MacKENZIE

If you stood an Indian Moslem and a Hindu side by side you would see little difference in their appearance, and if you followed each of them through his day's routine you would find their pursuits much the same, barring religious observances.

Yet tradition has it that these two are born to eternal enmity because they worship different gods. Tradition says this means there can be no political unity in India and no solution of the present crisis on a national basis.

Well, that tradition has a lot to substantiate it, including bloodshed, and the student of the situation who overlooked this would indeed be shortsighted. We must admit at once that one of the greatest political problems of history is bound up in India's religious animosities and in such interlocking social customs as the Hindu caste system which divides humanity into thousands of more or less iron-clad classes.

Still, I challenge tradition. Its weakness is that it fails to take into account the fact that conditions change through the generations. What seemed true 300 years ago, or 30 years back, may be untrue today. And to my mind the question of whether Moslems and Hindus can get along together is far from being the same now as it was a generation ago when I first visited India.

Orthodoxy in the Moslem and Hindu religions has become much more tolerant. India's sons of today are displaying a liberality which their fathers didn't possess.

The consensus among Indians of all classes as I found it was that, despite the undoubted differences, there is no reason why these two religions should not get along together. Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, the great liberal leader, put it to me like this:

"I am a Brahmin (the highest and most aristocratic Hindu caste). Last night 25 persons including poets dined in my house here, and 11 of them were Moslems.

"In many instances Moslems and Hindus have a common ancestry. We eat the same things, dress the same and live the same, excepting in the south where the languages are different.

"There have been differences between Moslems and Hindus but they are not two nations. I stand for a common citizenship."

I found many proofs in my travels about India that Hindus and Moslems could live and work together, but the most impressive was in the Hindu state of Gwalior. I want to tell you about that, because it seems to sum up everything so completely.

Gwalior is one of the most powerful of the states ruled by the princes. When I was in India 27 years ago I was the guest of the late Maharajah Scindia in his palace for ten days—an Arabian nights adventure. He was a broadminded man—a fact which made even more striking the one

Concentration of Foe on Islands North of Australia Told

(By The Associated Press)

The United Nations were put on notice by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today that the Japanese, who for months have not attempted any large-scale offensive enterprises, are concentrating their main strength in the ring of islands stretching for 2,000 miles or more to the north of Australia.

"Our air reconnaissance over the past weeks reports a constant and growing reinforcement in all categories of enemy strength in the island perimeter enveloping the upper half of Australia," said the allied headquarters communiqué issued in Australia.

"The enemy seems to be concentrating his main effort in preparation on this front."

This announcement was supplemented by a headquarters spokesman who said the Japanese preparations might be either for defense or offense, and was matched by a statement by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific Fleet, indicating that the U. S. Navy might have some cards up its sleeve.

"At Crossroads Now"

"We are now at the crossroads of the Pacific campaign," Admiral Nimitz said in a broadcast. "From now on the going will be tougher as we undertake the task of driving the enemy from prepared positions he has been building in the conquered areas.

"It is our job to destroy his ships and planes and to neutralize his island strongholds as we drive toward the positions from where we can reach with our shells and bombs his industrial nerve centers."

This statement was taken in some quarters as a hint that the Navy was about ready for some offensive action aimed eventually at bringing not only American air power, but American artillery, within range of the Japanese homeland.

American and Australian troops which have smashed one Japanese army of 150,000 in New Guinea were declared to have driven the Japanese back about 30 miles from Wau, site of an allied airfield in northeastern New Guinea.

Wau is about 35 miles southwest of Salamaua, a coastal base which the Japanese have held since early last year.

Strike in China, Burma

In other Far Pacific areas, American airmen were busy striking blows in China and Burma. The American air force under Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault renewed its offensive against the Japanese along the Burma road, after a month's lay-off due to bad weather, and spilled tons of bombs on warehouse and barracks at Mangshih, 30 miles west of the Salween river where the Japanese have been making some advances in a threat against China's Yunnan province.

Other American fliers from India were reported in a communiqué to have damaged, and probably sunk, a 7,000-ton merchant ship south of Rangoon, big Burma port, and to have spread devastation among warehouses and ammunition dumps at Waingmaw, a Japanese base in northern Burma used for the Yunnan drive.

An Indian coastal patrol, feeling out Japanese defenses 60 miles southeast of Akyab on the Burma coast, clashed with armed enemy launches and killed 50 Japanese soldiers.

February Sinkings in Western Atlantic Six

Sinkings of six cargo ships by axis submarines in the western Atlantic were disclosed in February, marking the lowest monthly total of announced losses in enemy action in those waters since Pearl Harbor.

January brought announcements of 30 such sinkings. The monthly average in the first year after Pearl Harbor was 45.

(By The Associated Press)

German submarines torpedoes boats and planes were declared by a Berlin broadcast communiqué today to have sunk 90 allied merchant vessels, three cruisers, two submarines, a destroyer and 10 smaller warcraft during February.

These claims were without confirmation in allied quarters.

The communiqué, recorded by The Associated Press, said the sunken merchant vessels totaled 576,800 tons.

Three Buildings in Business District of Ohio Damaged

OHIO—Three buildings in Ohio's block and a half long business district were damaged by fire Friday night at an estimated loss from $25,000 to $30,000. Fire departments from Ohio, Princeton, Lamolite and Walnut fought the blaze.

The fire started in the rear of the William M. Denbo grocery store and spread quickly through the building destroying a large stock of food.

On the second floor of the building the Ohio exchange of the Illinois Allied telephone company is located and the fire put phone service out of commission within a half hour.

The post office located south of the grocery store was damaged by smoke and water and in the rear by fire, while the building to the north occupied by the Golden Rule dress shop was damaged by smoke and water.

Club rooms of the Masonic lodge above the dress shop and the Catholic Daughters of America above the post office were damaged by smoke.

characteristic which seemed odd and contradictory: He wouldn't eat food with an unbeliever, that is, one who wasn't a follower of the Hindu religion.

Now that great and good prince has gone to his fathers, and his young son rules in his stead. However, it was but natural that I should want to see Gwalior again on this trip, and I was repaid with one of the great thrills of my journey. I found that in this Hindu state all religions are living and working together in amity, and this striking development had been fostered by the late Maharajah who at one time didn't feel that it was right to eat with an unbeliever.

Charles Hanson Badly Hurt When Struck by Car Sunday Morning

Charles Hanson, 66, this city, was struck by an automobile Sunday morning about 12:15 o'clock on Peoria avenue near First street and knocked to the paving. Several persons witnessed the accident and police removed the injured man to the hospital where a head injury was dressed and he was released at his own request.

The driver of the car which struck Hanson made no report of the accident and while several were near the scene, but one woman, who was seated in a parked car, obtained the license number, which she turned over to the police Sunday. According to the police report that car was driven by K. V. Clark of Armada Place, who had been ordered to report at the police station today.

Sunday when police visited Hanson at his rooming house to inquire as to his condition, they found him in a serious condition and about 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon he was again taken to the hospital for observation. It was reported that he may be suffering from a skull fracture, but at first examination he appeared to have sustained only a superficial scalp wound.

$5,500,000 Fire Today on Oakland Waterfront

Oakland, Calif., March 1.—(AP)—Losses running into millions of dollars—one source estimated $5,500,000—were caused by a six-alarm fire that destroyed the grain-filled Albers Milling Company plant on the Oakland waterfront today, and set a merchant ship ablaze. The ship fire soon was extinguished.

The flames were so intense the firemen, at times, were unable to approach within 200 feet of the building.

Acting Fire Chief Manning Basch estimated damage at $5,500,000, of which $3,000,000 was to contents.

Cause of the disaster was undetermined.

Nazis Batter Way

Red army offensive to a halt in the Donets basin and thrown the soviet back across the Donets river at Izium, 70 miles south-east of Kharkov and north of the rail center of Slavyansk.

The Germans already had claimed the recapture of Kramatorsk, south of Slavyansk, and Lozovaya, 75 miles south of Kharkov, but the Russians said their troops still were sweeping ahead west of Kharkov and Kursk toward the Dnieper.

From the west, Germany was being hammered from the air as never before, and the RAF last night left St. Nazaire, big U-boat base on the French coast, aflame and plumed with smoke as the result of some 1,000 tons of bombs sent plunging into submarine pens and repair shops in a 30-minute raid which overwhelmed the defenders.

German Claims Big

Despite heavy blows in the past month to her submarine bases and building industry, however, Germany claimed without confirmation that her U-boats had sunk 90 allied merchant ships totaling 576,800 tons, three cruisers and other warships in February.

Keeping up the British and American aerial assault which began last Thursday night and has continued every day and night since, the RAF last night smashed into enemy territory after writing up February as the biggest month yet in tonnage of bombs dropped on the nazis.

A Reuters dispatch from North Africa said American engineers, clearing away dense minefields which the Germans had planted to protect their retreat, had entered Feriana, 12 miles from the Algerian frontier and 40 miles northwest of Gafsa.

The occupation of Feriana, from which the Germans once had threatened the American base of Tebessa in Algeria, meant the allies had progressed about 18 miles since taking Kasserine.

In the north, the British First Army, grouped to contain Gen. Jurgon von Arnim's forces in the area of Tunis and Bizerte, was "successful in holding the enemy in every instance," an allied communique announced yesterday.

Intense Nazi Operations

In central Tunisia, the Germans had signalled the opening of intense North African operations by a series of half a dozen attacks on a 65-mile front from near the northern coast to south of Medjez-el-Bab.

And as in central Tunisia, the full air power of the allies had been swung into a counterassault. American and British heavy, medium and light bombers and fighter-bombers crashed their full loads of bombs into columns of tanks and troops and a British squadron leader said "There must be bloody chaos over there."

As to the Russian campaign, the Germans claimed yesterday they had captured Lozovaya, 75 miles south of Kharkov, and Karmatorsk, 110 miles southeast of Kharkov and north of Stalino, after several days of bloody battle in which the Russians lost 14,000 dead.

U-Boat Base Attacked

St. Nazaire, the U-boat base in France, was attacked "very heavily" last night by RAF bombers which dropped "a great weight of high explosive and incendiary bombs," the British Air Ministry announced.

In 30 minutes, it was said, 1,000 tons of explosives scorched the base.

Five of the bombers were lost. The total of explosives loosed on the reich and German objectives last month was estimated at more than 10,000 tons, compared with the monthly average of 4,000 tons during 1942.

A hint that the Germans were busy applying the pressure to Italy to keep her in the war was seen in a Berlin broadcast announcing that Premier Mussolini and German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop had reached a "complete agreement of views" on prosecution of the war to final victory at a conference in Rome.

On Germany's northern wing, Finland's re-elected president, Risto Ryti, declared "we can not see any signs of an end to the war." His statement followed recurrent rumors of peace feelers.

V-Home Campaign Started by Girl Scouts This Morn

Dixon's part in the nation-wide OCD V-Home campaign got under way today when Intermediate Girl Scouts, pinch-hitting for over-busy local air raid wardens, began a house to house canvass leaving pledges and, where possible, giving V-Home Recognition window stickers. Mayor William Slothower, chairman of Dixon's Defense Council, said today that citizens are not to sign these pledges until they have qualified for the honor award, that is, the awards cannot be given on a promise to qualify. He stressed particularly the great need of conservation in every household—rubber, scrap metal, old rags, kitchen fats and greases, paper and tin.

There is an especial demand for tin for the armed forces. Each housewife, or some member of the family, is asked to open both ends of every tin can, remove the label, mash the tin-can into a flat piece and save in a dry place until it can be collected. Seventy toothpaste tubes will provide enough tin for the radiator of an army truck. Eighteen tin cans will make a portable flame thrower. One old flatiron will yield enough steel for two helmets or thirty hand grenades. An old set of golf clubs will provide metal for a .30 caliber machine gun. One old tire will make boots for eighteen parachute troopers. Fifty feet of garden hose will make one life raft for the Navy.

More Grease Needed—Army officials are daily begging for more and more grease for explosives.

"Understanding of procedures in case of attack by air is very vital to us all," the mayor said, "and it is one thing that the average citizen seems to know the least about. This is attested by the numerous inquiries which come daily to the local defense council. We in Dixon are in one of the main defense areas in the nation, and far-fetched as it may seem, we are not immune. We are in a critical target area. For self-protection, each householder and the members of his family should know a few essentials concerning this extremely vital point in defense."

Essentials to be checked by each family in this respect are: Remove all inflammables from attic, particularly. Provide each home with a bucket of sand in case of incendiary bombs. Have a working flashlight at hand. Keep candles or oil lamps ready in case electricity fails. Follow directions of air raid warden regarding black-outs.

Mrs. I. B. Hoefler, the mayor's appointee as chairman of the V-Home campaign, is contacting intermediate Girl Scout troops throughout the week to give instructions regarding distribution of pledge blanks.

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDS COLONIAL PLAY PRESENTED FOR CLUBWOMEN AND GUESTS

Waves of laughter, surging through the large audience of Dixon Women's club members and invited guests at Saturday's Guest Day meeting of the club at the Loveland Community House, were evidence that a home talent show is always appreciated. The play, "Ladies in Moonlight," brought to life the wives of five past presidents of the United States.

On a moonlight in Presidents' Hall of the Smithsonian Institute, the figures of Lady Washington, Abigail Adams, Dolly Madison, Mary Lincoln, and Julia Grant awaken. They comment upon today's affairs, of which they become aware through newspapers left by visitors, and the conversation of those who pass through the hall. The quintet recall some of their own great hours, perplexing problems and their solutions, as well as some of their human foibles.

Bits of wisdom and historical facts which brought responses of appreciation from the audience, supplies a timely review of history, heard in the following excerpts:

"Good men then as now, are precious hard to come by"; Mary Todd Lincoln paid $2,000 for her inaugural gown; Dolly Madison started the custom of inaugural balls; Abigail Adams used her influence with her husband to persuade congress to pass laws more favorable to women.

From a newspaper, Dolly learns that there is still quarreling over the Constitution, which is "A perennial topic of discussion"; Abigail's experience taught her "there is always suffering in politics", and she wonders if humanity is worth what her husband gave for its welfare.

Mary Lincoln wishes to know "Is Congress today as stubborn and stupid as it was in Mr. Lincoln's administration?" Martha Washington knew the answer to that: "Congress is always stubborn." Washington authorized the play, Gato, to be presented for the entertainment of the soldiers after the long winter at Valley Forge, whereupon Congress passed a resolution: "Whereas, true religion and good morals are the only solid foundations of public liberty and happiness, any person, holding an office under the United States who shall attend a theatrical performance, shall be dismissed from the service."

Throughout the quintet's clever speeches, further parallels between the past and present were learned: Labor is restless; inflationary prices make food hard to get; all presidents become unpopular after a few years in office; "this country has been like a child with growing pains. We grew and grew, and stretched so fast that there wasn't time to be graceful and fine."

The play, skillfully directed by Mrs. Floyd Blewfield, was staged in costumes assembled from attic trunks of Dixon homes.

The afternoon's program also included two colonial songs, "Billy Boy" and "The Second Minuet", sung by Mrs. Lucile Satterlee. Mrs. H. U. Bardwell announced plans for daytime nursery care for children whose mothers are employed in defense work or other necessary work. A nutritionist and a trained nurse will assist with operation of the school, in addition to four experienced teachers. Registration began today, and the school is scheduled to begin its regular schedule tomorrow. Mrs. Wilbur Fulfs announced a

DIXON WATER CO.

Pretty Nifty... Over All

It had to happen sooner or later—women war workers' prosaic overalls and coveralls are influencing the design of leisure-time lounging clothes. Two typical examples are pictured at right, modeled by Helen Walker, featured in Paramount's "Lucky Jordan." A factory worker's overall inspired the first one, of blue gabardine with crimson and navy pockets and yoke. From plain old-fashioned bibbed overalls came the idea for the slacks at right. They are of black gabardine with red, white and beige embroidery. Agnes Barrett designed them.

FAMILY OF DIXON CAPTAIN IS ENJOYING WARTIME HOME ON RANCH, NEAR EL PASO

In this morning's mail, there was a letter from a former Dixon young woman, whose family is making the best of things in strange surroundings these wartime days, and are enjoying themselves immensely on a small ranch near El Paso, Texas. Such phrases as "we simply enjoy every minute of this land of sunshine" and "the sun has shone every day, all day, since our arrival," make the Dixon friends of Capt. and Mrs. Robert Brewster a bit envious, particularly in the face of predictions for "zero to five above by tonight", which greeted the unwilling ears of early-morning radio listeners today.

Five Persian cats, five dogs, and eight baby rabbits are among the favorite pets the Brewsters' small son and daughter, Karen and John, have found at their new home, which is about ten miles from Fort Bliss, Captain Brewster's new post.

Last week, the former Dorothy Helmick writes, "we watched the gardener plant radishes, lettuce, carrots, peas, and onions." Judging from her letter, the Brewsters' Victory garden is something super, with "little irrigation ditches with bridges over them all through the yard."

Since their arrival in the southwest a few weeks ago, the Brewsters have made half a dozen trips into Mexico, and Mrs. Brewster is interested in making a collection of Mexican arts from the interesting shops in Juarez and other cities. During a recent sidetrip, they witnessed a program of bull fights.

Captain and Mrs. Brewster and Karen are studying Spanish. So far, Karen seems to head the family "class," as she spends much of the time out of doors with the Mexican gardener. John was a recent patient at the station hospital, where xrays revealed no bones were broken as a result of his exploration of the machinery in an electric washer.

Yesterday, the Brewsters were entertaining the officers and their wives at a get-acquainted party at the ranch, from 2 until 5. "Chuck" Beisman of Dixon was a recent dinner guest of the Brewsters. Lieut. Clark Gable is a gunner at nearby Biggs Field.

ANSWERING A JAPANESE HUSBAND

By LEANE ZUGSMITH

In Tokyo, last year, a Japanese husband told me that he would never permit his wife or daughter to visit the United States. He did not wish them to become infected with American ideas on the status of women. He had visited the United States, envying some features, condemning more; and he said to me, scornfully:

"American women are treated as though they were men's equals. They do not stay in their place; they act as though they had inherited the earth."

I elected not to answer him. I had, by that time, seen enough of the muzzled, swaddled women of Japan to think of them as captives in their own land. You do not argue with jailers. But I also knew that he spoke for the enemy, not only for Japan where women have always been abased but for Germany and Italy where once-free women have been debased.

The Axis countries are now America's foes. The Axis men are twice women's foes, contemptuous of us and implacable toward us.

Let me answer that Japanese now—and his countrymen and his Fascist partners. Let me answer him with the millions of other women in our land: We have inherited the earth equally with men; and, equally with them, we shall share in defeating you—by our free choice and not by Fascist fiat.

Some of us may be privileged to see action on battle fronts, some of us may have the opportunity to work in war industries. All of us, each week, can divert a portion of our family income to buying War Bonds and Stamps. We will invest in war materials to save ourselves from the future that you, the enemy, mistakenly think you have charted for us and all of humankind. That is the answer the free women of America make to the Japanese husband; and to the German and to the Italian.

P.-T. A. Congress Is Being Cancelled

After polling its board of managers by telegram, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers are announcing that its annual meeting, which was to have been held in Chicago early in May, is being canceled. In recent years, the annual assembly of this organization of more than two and one-half million members has drawn between 10,000 and 12,000 delegates.

According to records, the San Francisco earthquake caused the 1906 convention in Los Angeles to be postponed for several months, and the 1918 meeting was curtailed because of war conditions. This is the first time in history of the organization, however, that's national assembly has been canceled.

Mrs. William Kleiter of Portland, Ore., the national president, has stated that the board of managers will meet in Chicago at a date not yet specified to transact essential business. This is election year, but arrangements for selecting new officers have not yet been announced.

You too can help in "SPREADING" TELEPHONE SERVICE

Your telephone system is overcrowded with urgent war calls. The equipment was designed to care for any normal increase in service demands—but then came the war and with it an unprecedented demand for more and more service.

We'd like to add new lines, new equipment, new facilities. But—the copper, lead, steel and other materials are now being used to manufacture weapons of war. That comes first, of course, so we must do the best with what we now have.

With everyone's cooperation, we can "spread" the service so that it will do more and help more people.

1. Don't make unnecessary calls.
2. Be sure of the number before you call.
3. Don't call "information" if the number is listed in the directory.
4. Be brief when you do call.
5. If you are on a party line, be considerate of the "other fellow"—share the line willingly.

A Thought for Today

What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him?—Psalms 8:4.

How poor, how rich, how abject, how august,
How complicated, how wonderful, is man!
How passing wonder He who made him such!—Young.

Vincimo

For a long time Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, carried the slogan "Vinceremo", which means "We will win."

Italian-speaking friends say that if Il Duce had been expressing mere confidence—telling in slogan form what inevitably was going to happen—he would have written "Vincimo," which means "We shall win."

The dictator must have had misgivings. For instead of stating a simple fact, perhaps unconsciously he said in effect: "We are going to try to win."

Now, suddenly, Il Popolo has switched to the new slogan "Non Vinceranno," which means "They shall not win." Again the form expressing determination, rather than a calm dispassionate statement of what Il Duce would like to believe.

This is no mere play upon words. It is clear indication of the low state of Italian morale, when the dictator's own newspaper concedes that the possibility of axis victory has disappeared. The most that Mussolini even claims, now, is that the axis will seek a stalemate, as the war's outcome.

Since Italy's fate is to be that of Germany, the change indicates clearly what even Hitler's satellite in Italy thinks about Hitler's chances of victory.

What Italy has discovered can not be hidden forever from Germany. We have known the answer for some time. We do not need to be told. But it is cheering to learn that the enemy is beginning to catch on.

Neither Germans nor Italians are, like the Japs, the type to continue fighting after they have been whipped. Such realization as is shown by Il Popolo's new slogan marks a definite turn for the better.

After Dunkirk in England, and after Pearl Harbor in the United States, the slogan had to be "They shall not win." Gradually, as the situation improved, it became the simple "They will not win." We now are in the "We will win" stage, expressing firm determination. We are about to pass into the stage in which we can say what Mussolini never dared say:

"Vincimo—we shall win." A calm, simple statement of unchallengeable fact.

Waste Fats

Response to the waste kitchen fat salvage campaign is not enough to meet the need. We are having to dig into our reserve, the Office of War Information warns, to get enough fat to meet our war demand for explosives. If every family would turn in half a pound each month, we could break even.

We can't afford to run out of ammunition for our fighting men. We can't assume that the other fellow will do it. Everybody must begin to help or must help more.

Every mother should bring up her children—except when she's out in company.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc., reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited.)

Washington—A common question now is:

Where is the German air force?

British military experts believe Hitler is holding back a large quantity of planes, several thousand, for a final desperate offense.

Hitler has done many mad things, but it is inconceivable to any rational American military authority that he would deliberately withhold planes and take current unnecessarily brutal beatings in Russia.

A few hundred planes might have saved him from the worst of his defeat at the bend of the Don.

If Rommel had a few hundred planes, he might be in Alexandria and Cairo today instead of pocketed 1,500 miles away.

With a thousand planes, the fuhrer might break up the severity of the American-British bombing attacks on Germany.

The logical answer to the question of where is the luftwaffe must be that there isn't any. The only other possible answer is that Hitler has gone mad and is suffering murderous fits to save something he could never need more than he has in the past six months.

Significance of Archbishop Spellman's flight to the Vatican may well have been over-interpreted already. The White House explanation, or the archbishop's—namely that he is on a purely religious mission in connection with the American diocese and his Vicarship of American troops—would suffice.

It has not been made clear, however, that the Vatican has become the logical non-military channel of communication between the warring nations, either for peace or any other negotiations.

Mussolini established this when, a few weeks ago, he appointed his son-in-law, Count Ciano, ambassador to the Holy See. Ciano is not a very strong personality and is only a messenger boy for Mussolini. He has dealt for Il Duce with Von Ribbentrop and the axis continually, and knows the subject.

His appointment was made in such a way as to suggest that Ciano is now out of favor with Mussolini, but it is just as easy to believe Charlie McCarthy could become out of favor with Bergen.

While the president's former special representative, Myron Taylor, has returned from the Vatican, his secretary is acting as charge d'affaires, and the presence of the archbishop would not be necessary to get messages back and forth.

It is possible the American Catholic leader carried a message from Roosevelt warning of expected bombings in Rome or something like that. But any peace suggestion, except "unconditional surrender" would have to come from the other end.

Latest statements of both Hitler and Stalin, in their inner impact, reveal that the greatest battlefront may be the one we know nothing about—the one behind the German lines.

Hitler's whole proclamation to the party meeting at Munich was an effort to arouse all nazi politicians to fanaticism against sabotage. The fact that he stressed no other subject more is most convincing proof that the unreported battle on the nazi home front rages more fiercely day by day.

Stalin's Red army speech a day earlier seemed to imply that the nazi casualties behind the front are tremendous. Repeatedly complimenting "men and women guerrillas," he said:

"The Red Army, since the beginning of the war, has put out of commission about 9,000,000 German officers and men, of which no less than 4,000,000 were killed on the field of battle."

This is hardly subject to the interpretation that 5,000,000 were killed behind the lines as Stalin, no doubt, intended to include prisoners and wounded. But certainly it is true that not half the news of this war is yet in circulation.

Skeptics here have been inclined to discount Russian claims of casualties and Red communiqués by about 50 per cent. But the two most important facts of the current Russian fighting are clear and undeniable.

The line of the Russian advance is truly drawn on daily newspaper maps (both sides agree in general about points taken). Also, the Germans are not voluntarily retreating, and the fighting is certainly heavy. They agree on this also. In general, therefore, the situation has been truthfully presented.

Any discount can therefore only be logically applied to the casualties, the amount of material destroyed, and extraneous points of Russian enthusiasm.

Happy Birthday

EDWARD J. RAYMOND

DeKalb, March 1—The funeral of Edward Joseph Raymond, 69, secretary and treasurer of the DeKalb Daily Chronicle Publishing Co., who passed away Saturday morning at St. Mary's hospital, where he had been a patient for about a month, was held at 10:00 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Catholic church. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery at Aurora.

Mr. Raymond was born in Aurora Sept. 1, 1873, the son of Charles and Mary Villeneuve Raymond, who had moved to Aurora from the province of Quebec, Can. He attended parochial and public schools in Aurora until he was 14 years of age, and became an employee of the old Aurora Beacon on Sept. 1, 1887. He learned the printing trade there and on June 15, 1901, opened his own print shop in Aurora.

He was married to Julia M. Holslag of Aurora on Oct. 30, 1898. While in Aurora, he was elected city clerk on the Labor ticket in 1903. Re-elected twice, he left the office to form a partnership with F. W. Greenaway for the purchase of the DeKalb Daily Chronicle. They assumed control of the business here Jan. 15, 1909. Mr. Raymond was in charge of the business and mechanical departments of the Chronicle.

He was active in civic affairs in DeKalb. He was a charter member and past president of the Kiwanis club, former president of the DeKalb Chamber of Commerce, and past exalted ruler of the DeKalb lodge of Elks.

He is survived by two sons, C. Edward and Charles F. Raymond, both of DeKalb and both associated with the Chronicle; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Regnier of Aurora and Mrs. Etta Esser of Milwaukee; one brother, Arthur Raymond of Brookfield, and a half-brother, Euseb Moysant of Aurora. His wife died Jan. 6, 1939.

JOSEPH BROOKS

(Telegraph Special Service)
Polo, March 1—The funeral of Joseph Brooks, 46, farmer of north of Polo, who was found crushed to death in the seat of his tractor at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, will be held at the DeGraff funeral home in Forreston at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and at the Polo Methodist church at 2:00. The pastor, the Rev. Theo. Loeppert, will officiate and burial will be in the Brookville cemetery.

A coroner's jury, impaneled by Dr. J. C. Atkins of Forreston, Ogle county coroner, decided Brooks was accidentally killed when he became pinned between the tractor steering wheel and a tree stump.

Brooks had been using a tractor to gather logs into a pile on his farm land, preparatory to sawing them. As he was backing up to a log near a six-foot tree stump, he apparently backed too fast or misjudged the distance. He was pinned in the seat on the back of the tractor, between the steering wheel and the stump. A farm hand found the body.

Brooks was born on the farm where he was killed Aug. 7, 1896, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Brooks. He was married Sept. 28, 1932, to Ellen Drake of Forreston.

He was active in hybrid seed corn associations, and was a well known sheep feeder. He was a member of Polo Methodist church and the Odd Fellows lodge.

Surviving are the widow; two sons, Lester and Phillip; three daughters, Joan, Mary and Catherine; his mother, who resided at her son's home, and one brother, George Brooks, who lives near Polo.

Fair Enough

WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The nazis of late have revived their early propaganda to the effect that they stand between the free peoples and Communism. By some this has been interpreted as a sign of weakness and fear and the Communists themselves in this country are denouncing it as an attempt to divide the United Nations, as it certainly is.

But better for American purposes, then any attempt to distinguish between nazism and Communism which are equally brutal, treacherous and fatal to freedom, would be a sort of refresher course on the perfidies of the Hitler state, some of the details of which may have faded from mind in the confusion and shocks of the war.

Hitler organized a conspiracy against the hospitality, trust and safety of other nations, no less evil but no more so, than the Communist party. Germans living abroad were held to be Germans nevertheless forever, even though they had acquired citizenship and the rights and privileges thereof in their adopted countries.

They were brought back to Germany for reunions and indoctrination and, impressed by the brutal megalomania of Hitler's brown shirts and then of his troops, they went forth again, regarding themselves as a chosen people whose honor was above the requirements of honor as civilized people understood it. Every low and evil trick and trait which Hitler's propaganda attributed to the Jews, as inherent in that which he called their racial Jewishness, was practiced as the national program of the master race.

The nazis whined for sympathy, they disarmed their selected victims with gestures of hearty friendship, they borrowed with no intention to pay, they pinched off and stole properties and earnings of foreign investors, they bribed traitors in Austria, Czechoslovakia and Norway to betray their countries and in the end, convinced that they were now ready to master the world by war, they marched against small and helpless nations in sudden assaults in which the bravery was all on the side of the victims.

Schuschmigg of Austria was invited to a party and seized, and God only knows what Hitler did with him. In a matter of hours, the nazis swept into a defenseless country and took it, as the saying went, by phone.

The ghastly cruelties inflicted on the Jews, not only in Germany but wherever the nazis went, have lost some of their impressiveness first because time heals horror and, second, because the greater blood-letting of the actual war has decentralized the suffering. Yet, so insistent and strong was the early anti-Jewish propaganda, identifying Jewishness with bolshevism, that there are Americans who forget that Hitlerism is the very essence of all the perfidies which he charged to them.

At other times Hitler has stood against Jewish capitalism, where in the Jews became anti-Communists, and against the plutocratic democracies and there was a period lasting from the outbreak of the war in Poland until he struck Russia when it served him to regard Communism as a legitimate form of government in Russia with no intention to overstep the Russian borders.

There came a time when President Roosevelt, perhaps hoping to prevent war, but more likely for the sake of the black record of Hitlerism, asked Hitler to give assurances that he would not attack a long list of independent, peaceful and smaller nations, to which Hitler replied by asking each in turn whether it stood in fear of attack. Most of them gave frightened answers that they relied on his appearances of friendship but one by one most of them were attacked, overrun and overwhelmed.

The chosen people of the master race were on the march again, punishing inferiors who had thought unfriendly thoughts, slaughtering civilians, executing innocent hostages—chosen by lot for decimation and boasting that, though others might starve, the Germans would not.

Communism is, for a fact, a menace to the United States as this government, even under the new deal, perhaps to its embarrassment, has acknowledged, but that does not mean that Hitlerism would protect this or any other nation from Communism. That is a defense which the people of this country must undertake for themselves and, in the long run, the reviled and derided Dies committee of congress, will be recognized as an early and effective fighter against the menace.

It is futile to argue that when Stalin conquers Hitler from the east he will stand on his own line and that Communism will not flow into Germany. There were more than 5,000,000 Communist voters in Germany when Hitler came to power and most of them found his treachery and brutality

CHAPTER I

MISS PAT FRIDAY was in that ominous state of mind known as I-won't-stand-for-it-any-longer.

She had, in fact, just ceased to stand for it. Half an hour back she had told the boss where he could go, and it wasn't heaven. Or at least she had implied it; enough to need a new job at once.

Pat was like that. Being a lady is very difficult if the boss is a heel and pays you only $22 a week anyway. Moreover, her job had little or nothing to do with either patriotism, adventure or romance, three items which Pat held to be important. And it was down in the second basement, which made her feel like an owl or a mole. Surely there would be a job, somewhere, with a boss who minded his own business and gave her a chance to see the sun. She was rocking now with the Uptown bus, and a fat lady crowded her tight.

"Stop it!" Pat snapped at her, then instantly added, "Oh I didn't mean that! I'm sorry!" You see? That's the state of mind Pat was in. Touchy. Fed up. She was not the kind who snapped at people. It made her ashamed. She just had to do something, wherefore she burrowed deeper into the long "Help Wanted" column of the newspaper which she held folded near her nose.

Half way down, a large want ad arrested her. It was in bold face indented type, as if extra important:

SIX YOUNG WOMEN Wanted; 20 to 25; secretarial, learn soaring while you work, replace men needed in service; must be unincumbered, for travel; $50 a week to start; highest character references; physical examination; source minds only, college graduates. Apply 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, James Carr, Suite 20, Columbia Building.

Pat's mouth made a pretty red O. "For Pete's sake!" she breathed. Avidly she read the want ad again. She moistened her lips. The fat lady stepped on her and went unnoticed. Secretarial... Soaring—what the heck is soaring? Replace men... fifty dollars... physical... source... Source minds? Pat's brow furrowed.

At 103rd street she left the bus and half trotted to her room. Her mind was whirling. She stood before her bed, a cute somebody unconsciously snapping the elastic band of her new skirt that had cost three whole dollars. Friends would have known that something audacious was cooking in Pat Friday's brain.

IN the Columbia Building at 8:15 next morning Miss Patricia Friday suddenly realized that, so far, other want ad readers had been as smart as she. Get there early? Nearly 40 girls had that same idea! The line reached almost back to the elevator. Instinctively Pat paused to think.

On quick impulse she turned and went down again. In the corner drugstore she bought an ordinary stenographer's notebook and two pencils. She raced back to the elevator again. A snappy lad of 17 operated it.

"Look here, mister," Pat melted him. "It's worth a dime—no, a quarter—if you hold my hat and coat for an hour. Emergency, see?"

She needn't have offered money; her smile was enough. She mussed her tatty hair to make it just a trifle unbecoming. She only the first few to wait. Tele-stuck one pencil boldly in the front roll of taffy, donned her severest frown and approached the line of girls once more. There, she spoke loudly.

Cupid pulled the ripcord on romance when Captain Jimmy Carr helped Pat Friday adjust her parachute harness—but Lorraine Stuart, the captain's fiancée, was determined to send Pat Friday's high-gliding dreams into a tailspin.

"You will have to be more quiet." She made it sound as harsh and authoritative as she could. "Mr. Carr would not approve of too much noise, I am sure."

Instantly she had their attention. She was walking primly toward Suite 20, with its closed door. There was still more than half an hour. If only her luck held!

"Give me your names, in turn. I will list appointments starting at 9:15. Remember the advertisement. If you can't fully qualify, I advise you not to wait!"

That took crust. Pat told herself. She felt her hands trembling, but she looked at those girls severely. In a moment she was at the head of the line, waiting. She asked questions rapidly, and under each name made a few shorthand notes. In this procedure, about half the girls departed on their own. But plenty remained and more kept coming, and Pat saw that some held in their manner a defiance as keen as her own.

Then Pat's heart skipped a beat when the elevator door clicked open and out stepped a man in uniform. Intuition drove Pat ahead of him to the Suite 20 door. Here, she faced the climax of her act.

"I have the names of all the applicants, sir," she said. "I assigned 10-minute appointments to each, with the promise of a return for any you thought advisable."

"Excellent," he replied, crisply, fitting a key to the door. "I had no idea there'd be so many! Tell me, only the first few to wait. Tele-

Dukes vs Prophets Opening Battle at Sterling Regional

Dixon Given Nod Over Whiteside County Team Tomorrow

BY BILL EVANS

Tuesday Night
Dixon vs. Prophetstown
Sterling vs. Lee Center
Wednesday Night
Rock Falls vs. Sterling
(St. Mary's)
Amboy vs. Paw Paw.

In the opening game of the regional tournament at Sterling tomorrow night, the Dixon Dukes will meet the black and orange of Prophetstown. In the second game of the evening the Sterling Township high school team will meet the scarlet and white of Lee Center.

Coach W. A. Craig's cagers from Prophetstown have an encouraging record this season of 15 victories against 3 defeats, while the Dukes claim 12 victories and four defeats.

Although the Prophets have a slightly better record this season, they nevertheless have not met the competition that the Dukes have. Due to this fact the Dixon Dukes will be given the nod over the black and orange Tuesday night. Dixon has faced such worthy opponents as Samonauk, East and West Rockford, and Freeport this season.

Outscore Opponents
Dixon has scored 668 points this season to their opponents 552 points. This shows that Dixon has a wonderful offensive system with a 43 point average per game but their showing on defense is not as convincing. The opponents of Dixon have an average of 34.5 points per game.

The Prophetstown cagers will overshadow the Dukes slightly Tuesday night as they will average six feet one inch in height to Dixon's five feet ten inch average.

Prophetstown has four players left from last year's "tournament ten". They are Wallace Lawrence, Richard Sommers, Allan Van DeMark, and Louis Groharing.

The first game of the tournament will get under way about 7 p. m. Tuesday night in the Sterling coliseum with Milt Vaughn and Sam Tracy, both of Rockford, doing the officiating.

First Game

OTHER REGIONALS

By Louis J. Kramp
Springfield, Ill., March 1—(AP)—There are 346 less entries as the annual "March Madness" of Illinois prep basketball goes swirling along today, but the 57 district tournament survivors move up like lambs, all likely to find a lot of lions among the other 423 title aspirants in the 60 regional that start tomorrow.

Peeking at the potates and possibilities among the peach-basket derby field, here's a glimpse of some of this week's battles royal at the regional centers:

At Alton: Alton has won 19 out of 20, and beat Alpha last week.

Aurora: East Aurora (10-5) vs. West (8-8) or the district's Yorkville (15-4).

Canton: Prairie City (26-2) fears trouble from Canton (20-2) and Peoria Woodruff (13-9).

Carthage: Dallas City (16-1) has won and lost to Carthage (15-2).

Casey: Chief rivals for Paris (28-2) are Charleston (13-6) and Kansas (30-3).

Decatur: Niantic (27-4) hopes to upset Decatur (23-6).

DeKalb: Sycamore and Shabbona are early favorites.

East Peoria: East Peoria (16-6) has beaten Manual and Metamora (10-8).

Elgin: Dundee (14-5) has beaten Hebron (25-2), a district winner, but neither has opposed Elgin (13-3).

Elmhurst: Morton of Cicero (16-3) won twice over Oak Park and Proviso of Maywood this season.

Galesburg: Galesburg's (11-8) competition has been strong all season.

Joliet: Calumet City (16-3)

wonders about fast-recovering Joliet (9-10).

Kewanee: Kewanee (16-4) intends to halt its three-game losing streak.

Moline: Neither Rock Island (10-10) nor East Moline (10-9) has frightened Moline (17-3) until now.

Mt. Carroll: Now that Shannon's out, Savanna and Morrison eye only each other.

Pekin: Peoria's Spalding (15-3) and Pekin (13-11) have broken even in two games. Neither has played Minier (21-7).

Princeton: St. Bede (15-3) beat Ohio and LaSalle-Peru (7-11) in its last two scheduled games.

Rochelle: Oregon last two games this year to Rochelle (14-2).

Rockford: Belvidere victimized West Rockford (11-4) and East Rockford (4-9) in winning 21 out of 26.

Sterling: Dixon (12-4) wants another trip to Champaign.

Stockton: Although Freeport has lost 10, one of its seven victories was over Moline.

Conference Marks Mean Nothing to Amazing Whiz Kids

Many Records Broken by Illini, Who Finish Season Tonight

By DAVE HOFF

Chicago, March 1—(AP)—In the wake of Illinois' record-shattering 86-44 Big Ten victory over Northwestern Saturday, amazement existed today among the 19,700 who saw the game Saturday night, and virtual incredulity among those who weren't there.

When the adjectives ran out, wisecracks popped up. One fan, recalling all those whistling clean field goals, laughed:

"Why the Whiz Kids weren't even hot in the first half—they didn't even touch the basket rim."

An Illinois follower, noting the Kids hit better than 50 per cent of their shots, demanded in mock indignation:

"Who was the guy that missed that one basket in the first half?"

This sparkling band of four juniors—Ken Menke, Andy Phillip, Gene Vance and Jack Smiley—and one senior—Art Mathison—has one game to go for an undefeated Big Ten season and a second straight championship. It's against Chicago tonight, and is regarded as a mere formality. The Maroons haven't beaten anyone, against all competition, this year, and haven't won over a conference opponent since Feb. 18, 1940, losing 39 straight in that span.

Coach Doug Mills, the youthful, congenial fellow who directs the Illini, plans to play safe, however. Against the woeful Maroons tonight he's going to start the big five, the boys who booted Northwestern around for a 40-23 halftime lead and then poured on most of the 46 additional points in the second half to liquidate Wisconsin's recently-set record of 74 points.

Record Impressive
Those amazing young men have broken virtually all of the old 12-game scoring records and have surpassed or are threatening a number of marks posted last year in the only 15-game season the Big Ten has ever had.

In 11 games the Illini have scored 663 points, better than the 536 by Wisconsin in 12 games in 1941 and nearing the 721 by Iowa in 15 last year.

In 11 games the Illini have made 284 field goals, far better than the 216 by Indiana in 12 games in 1940 and within four of the 288 by Indiana in 15 last year. Their 86 points against Northwestern rubbed out the 74 which Wisconsin made against Chicago. Earlier this campaign Indiana had scored 71 against Iowa to top the old 69 point mark held jointly by Purdue's 1937 team against Indiana and Northwestern's 1942 team against Chicago.

Andy Phillip Hot
In 11 games Andy Phillip of Illinois has scored 215 points, beating the old 12 game marks of 188 by Chuck Carney (Illinois, 1920) and 184 by Jewell Young (Purdue, 1938), and within 27 of tying the 242 made in 15 games last year by Wisconsin's John Kotz.

In 11 games Phillip has made 95 field goals, erasing the high of 69 made in 12 games in 1938 by Jewell Young, and equalling the 95 made in 15 games last year by Kotz.

Indiana, winner of 11 out of 12 games this year, ends its campaign tonight at Purdue. If by any chance Illinois shouldn't beat Chicago and the Hoosiers won, they'd be Big Ten champs by virtue of playing one more game than the Illini. This is such a remote possibility that Indiana has just about quit hoping.

Wisconsin, a 53-45 winner over Purdue Saturday, plays tonight at Minnesota, whose team dropped a 46-41 overtime decision Saturday to Great Lakes.

Ohio State, beaten 43-41 by Iowa Saturday, meets the Hawkeyes again tonight and Northwestern goes to Michigan, which thumped Chicago Saturday 67-33. That's the windup for all but Ohio State and Northwestern, who have a meeting scheduled Saturday at Columbus.

Speed Limit for Army, Navy Trucks Is Lifted

The trucks must carry certificates of exemption and pennants showing they are engaged in emergency service.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, March 1—(AP)—Our old friend, Mr. Reliable Source passes around the tip that Southern California is cancelling its football game with Notre Dame, scheduled for next fall and that Stanford probably will follow suit. . . . Reason is transportation, and all hands likely will book service teams to fill the gaps in the schedules. . . . There'll be a lot more of that before September and our idea is that most colleges not only will depend on freshmen for players but will be playing typical freshman-team schedules. . . . The question now arises: How many kids almost 18 years old will think it worth while to go to college for one season unless some good inducements are offered?

INDUCTION RUCTION
If Leo Durocher gets a new suit of khaki
The quest for a pilot may drive Brooklyn whacky
For Rocky's been hoping there might be a slip
In the Army's attempt to button his lip.

MONDAY MATINEE
By winning his fourth straight national three-mile championship Saturday, Greg Rice disproved the idea that it takes two to make a race. Greg lapped his rivals like an alley cat going after a bowl of milk, but when he put on that final sprint the fans stood and cheered. . . . After two months of outdoor work—sometimes at 15 below—helping build camp shacks at Orangeburg, N. Y., Mushy Jackson is sporting a coat of tan he never could get on Jacobs beach. . . . The Indians' Mel Harder plans to keep his job as "expediter" for a rubber company while he's taking his regular turn on the rubber this summer. He figures he can visit sources of material during road trips.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE
When an inquiring reporter recently asked owner George P. Marshall how the Washington Redskins expected to carry on in the face of the ODT travel ban, George replied: "The ODT hasn't stopped Clark Shaughnessy, so I don't see how it can stop us."

SERVICE DEPT.
Johnny Mariucci, former Chicago Black Hawk now starring for the Curtis Bay, Md., Coast Guard hockey outfit, turned down a chance for a Navy commission to join the Coast Guard. The inducement wasn't hockey, but a post as player-coach on the football team. . . . Pvt. Leason McClood, former Colorado U. basketball, couldn't pass the test of vision when he was an Army aviation cadet but he still can see the basket well enough to score 24 points for the South Plains Army flying school team after only one day of practice. . . . When Ensign "Charlie" Blalack, former Baylor U. tub thumper, returned home after finishing his Navy course at Notre Dame, he reported he'd take Southwest Conference football over the Irish variety any time. Still on the old job.

sluggers to do the same thing, but he did have some chicken wire.

When the Millers came back on their next swing the fence confronted them. It confounded the entire circuit the rest of the year.

The fence, constructed of chicken wire, was used last in 1941. Visiting American Association managers, who saw many a long drive ticketed for four bases snared in its meshes, liked it very little. Veeck did. The fence stayed.

The youthful president of the Milwaukee Brewers, who didn't earn his title as the outstanding minor league executive in 1942 for any lack of shrewdness, didn't use the fence last year. He had a left handed hitting outfielder, Hal Peck, who pulled his shots into right field. The chicken wire was a handicap.

Down came the fence and up went Peck's batting average. At the close of last season the Brooklyn Dodgers purchased him—and Veeck hasn't any other left-handed pull hitter and can't buy any. So up goes the barrier.

The fence came into being in the middle of the 1941 season after Veeck and Charley Grimm took over the Milwaukee club.

The Minneapolis Millers spoiled the duo's debut with a home run barge over the right field wall, 265 feet from home plate. Veeck reflected. He had no southpaw.

Bill Veeck's Spite Fence Will Go Up

Milwaukee, March 1—(AP)—Bill Veeck's up-again, down-again "spite fence", 40 feet high, will be atop the right field wall at Borchard Field once more this summer.

The fence, constructed of chicken wire, was used last in 1941. Visiting American Association managers, who saw many a long drive ticketed for four bases snared in its meshes, liked it very little. Veeck did. The fence stayed.

Your sweet lips pressed to mine
I need the boost in courage

I need your head beside me
Across the table every morn
I need to know you'll never forget
When our true love was born.

I need you here beside me
In the beauty of the night.
I need you near to guide me
If my country needs my might.

I need to see the laughter
In your happy smile.
I need each tender, sweet embrace
To make my life worth while.

I need to hear you whistle
When you take your daily shower.
I need to know you're near.
In fact I need you every hour.

I need you close beside me

Montgomery Ward's Statement TO THE NATIONAL WAR LABOR BOARD

February 27, 1943

National War Labor Board
Washington, D. C.

Gentlemen:

A National War Labor Board panel has recommended that the Board issue another order against Montgomery Ward and Co. imposing upon Wards' six large stores in Denver, Detroit and New York City:

1. A form of closed shop, called "maintenance of membership," together with a check-off of union dues from wages.

2. Compulsory arbitration of any question the union wishes to raise.

Wards objects to the proposed order for these reasons:

1. The War Labor Board is without authority. Congress, the only law-making authority under the Constitution, has not empowered the Board to order any employer to adopt these requirements.

2. The War Labor Board, by ordering a closed shop in this case, will be furthering disrespect for constitutional authority. The Board is attempting to assume a power to make rules and laws by executive fiat alone. The public is being deceived into believing that the Board's orders have the force of law, when in fact they have no such effect. Employees are being confused and deceived into believing that their government desires them to join labor unions when in fact the national policy as declared by Congress is that employees are free to join or not, as they wish. Thus the Board is destroying the very essence of democracy, the right of the people to make laws through those whom the people elect for that purpose.

3. The War Labor Board, by promiscuously granting some form of the closed shop, is destroying the laws constitutionally enacted by Congress. The National Labor Relations Act endorses, guarantees and encourages the process of collective bargaining. The orders of this Board, however, have led the unions to abandon collective bargaining. The union in this case has rushed to the War Labor Board in the conviction that the Board will grant more than it could obtain through collective bargaining, the procedure which Congress has sought to protect and encourage. Other unions are following the same course. Thus the Board, by this proceeding and by its policies as proclaimed in other proceedings of this nature, is nullifying the public policy of the nation as declared by Congress and set forth in the National Labor Relations Act. Laws passed by Congress, the only law-making authority under our Constitution, can not legally be repealed by executive decree.

4. The proposed order would require Wards to violate the law. It would require Wards, first, to interfere with the free choice of its employees to resign from the union; second, to give support to the union by a check-off of union dues; and third, to discriminate against employees if they resign their membership in the union, all in direct violation of the National Labor Relations Act.

5. Wards operates in a highly competitive field composed of one million seven hundred fifty thousand retail establishments. It is unfair to impose burdens upon Wards and not upon those with whom it is in competition. If the retail industry is to be subjected to the closed shop and arbitration requirements, they should be legislated by Congress and applied uniformly against all retail establishments.

6. The proposed order would require Wards to surrender to outside arbitrators the final decision on all matters which the union may wish to treat as grievances. Thus Wards' sixty thousand shareholders would be deprived of the right to direct, through the management they select, the affairs of the corporation they own.

7. Under this "maintenance of membership" form of closed shop, employees are not free to resign from the union without losing their jobs. Wards is compelled to discharge every union member who fails to maintain his union membership in good standing (non-payment of dues, etc.). "Maintenance of membership" is the starting phase which inevitably leads to the full closed shop and a labor monopoly.

8. The proposed order violates the fundamental principles of liberty. Liberty requires that an employee be free to join, to refuse to join, or to resign from a union without losing his job. Liberty requires that an employer be free to employ the person best suited for the work.

9. Wards has consistently defended these principles of liberty. In times of peace, Wards successfully denied all demands for the closed shop in any form. Two years ago the Teamsters' Union, in an effort to force a closed shop, maintained a vicious seven months strike against Wards' retail stores and mail order houses on the Pacific Coast. Two mail order houses and six retail stores were forced to close, forty-three other stores were picketed, and Wards suffered damages exceeding two million dollars. Employees were slugged, customers abused, and property destroyed. The railroads, the express companies, the truckers and finally the United States Post Office obeyed the demands of the union and, with total disregard for their obligations to the public and in violation of law, refused service to Wards and its customers. Nevertheless, Wards, while announcing its willingness to bargain and to contract with the union, refused to compromise the principles it was defending. The strike did not end until the union, in writing, withdrew its demand for a closed shop.

Even if the War Labor Board had the authority which it lacks, it should not, in time of war, when sacrifices are demanded of all, grant to any union a privilege it could not have obtained in time of peace.

Wards has no quarrel with legitimate union practices. However, Wards strongly opposes the War Labor Board's illegitimate attempts to sabotage our laws and to socialize all industry, ostensibly as a part of the war effort.

Wards desires to continue to obey the law, to preserve constitutional government, to maintain management by ownership, to remain competitive, and to leave its employees free to belong or not to belong to a union as they wish.

In accordance with these principles Wards must reject any proposals which require it to enter into contracts which it believes to be illegal, or to surrender principles which it considers to be fundamental. In so doing, Wards is taking the course which good citizenship requires.
